GERMANY LOSES COUNT ZEPPELIN

Famous Airship Builder Dies at Charlottenburg Near Berlin.

London, March 9.—Count Zeppelin is dead, according to a dispatch from Berlin received by Reuters' Telegram.

The telegram says Count Zeppelin died yesterday forenoon at Charlottenburg, near Berlin, from inflammation of the lungs.

Count Ferdinand Zeppelin became famous at the age of 70 as the builder of the world's first practical dirigible balloon. On his 75th birthday he navigated his 20th airship to celebrate the occasion. But before he had achieved fame, he had devoted a half century of his life, exhausted his personal fortune of $700,000 and sacrificed a brilliant career as a German cavalry leader, in conquering the air.

Emperor William recently proclaimed Count Zeppelin to be "the greatest German of the 20th century." As a token of appreciation he conferred upon him the exalted Order of the Black Eagle, the highest honor in the Emperor's power.

It was in the United States that Count Zeppelin made his first balloon ascension. It occurred while it was following General Carl Schurz in the Civil war as a military observer for the German army. A captive balloon in use for military operations by Union troops greatly interested the young German officer and he was taken up in it in 1863.

Count Zeppelin was born in Constance, Baden, in 1838. He fought through the Austro-Prussian and the Franco-Prussian wars, and is said to have been the first German soldier to cross the frontier into France. He rose to a rank of general at the age of 42. He retired ten years later a distinguished soldier, to devote all his time to the problem of aerostatics.

From a wealthy nobleman, owning vast estates, Count Zeppelin was gradually reduced to a humble cottage on an allowance supplied by his friends. He met many narrow escapes from death and disaster which repeatedly overtook his airships. These became so frequent that "per paragraphs" began to appear in the German press in ridicule of his efforts.

Then in a day the tide turned. He electrified a skeptical world in 1906 by staying aloft for 37 hours in the fifth airship he had built, and by sailing it in a straight course for a distance of nearly 900 miles. Emperor William, and all Germany in fact, now hailed him as "the conqueror of the air."

This monster balloon, 465 feet long and of the rigid type—a resemblance to a huge cigar, soon met with disaster, as had its predecessors. Each wreck was a great financial loss, for Zeppelin's balloons were valued as high as $500,000 each. These disasters also proved the affection in which the German people held the aristocratic aviator. When one of his airships was torn from its moorings by a gale and wrecked, the public subscribed $1,000,000 to a fund of which the crown prince was president for the inventor. The German Emperor frequently helped him out of financial difficulties, and the German Reichstag appropriated several hundred thousand marks for the purchase of his airships for the German army.

At the close of his remarkable career Count Zeppelin had retrieved a large part of his fortune he had spent in his conquest of the air. He trained his son, also an army officer, in the science of aerostatics and especially in his methods of building dirigible balloons. He also made an accomplished aeronaut of his daughter, who has made more than one hundred flights in the airships her father fashioned.

In order that the citizens of Kittery may better understand the school signals on stormy days, I wish to make the following explanation:

When the signal blows at 7:45 and 11:45, the schools will not be in session. When the no register signal blows at 8:15 and 12:15, schools will be in session, but the teachers will not use the school registers. This no register signal was arranged especially for the lower grades and children living off the car line, or a considerable distance from the villages. We depend upon the judgment of the parents as to the wisdom of sending their children to school when the weather is stormy but many who have a clear record of attendance will persist in leaving home when the weather conditions forbid, and in order to protect the scholars, we have arranged that they receive no discredit marks on such days as this signal is blown.

The grammar schools close for the Spring vacation on March 16th. The Spring term opens April 2, 1917.

SENATE FAVORS CLOTURE BY BIG MAJORITY VOTE

Measure Opposed by Three Senators Only--Extra Session of Congress Will Likely Follow to Pass Armed Neutrality Bill Debate to be Limited to One Hour for Each Senator

Washington, March 8.—The Senate of the United States late this afternoon overthrew the traditions of more than a century and voted to adopt a limitation on Senate debate. By a vote of 70 to 13 the Senate adopted a rule imposing a modified form of cloture on the upper house of Congress. This rule will clear the way for immediate action on the President's demand for legislation authorizing him to institute armed neutrality, if the President calls an extra session of Congress.

It is believed here by government officials close to the administration that President Wilson will call an extra session of Congress within a very few days. Recently Mr. Wilson declared that the unlimited debate rule, which has been in force in the Senate since the framing of the Constitution, would make the calling of an extra session on the question of armed neutrality futile. He has repeated intimations that he would convene the new Congress if the Senate passed a cloture resolution. With the action of the Senate this afternoon there seems nothing to cause him to longer neglect this move.

Since Monday the Senate has been in extraordinary session and the question of the cloture rule has been before the body as a committee of the whole. When the vote was taken this afternoon seventy-nine Senators answered to the roll call, seventy-six voting yeas and three voting in the negative. The Senators who opposed the resolution were Senator Sherman of Illinois, Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, and Senator Grönna of North Dakota, all republicans. All three of these senators figured in the filibuster on Saturday and Sunday which resulted in the ending of the 64th Congress by limitation without that body being able to reach a vote, although eighty members of the Senate were in favor of voting in the affirmative. The rule, as adopted by the vote this afternoon, will enable two-thirds of the Senate to limit the debate on any measure to one hour for each Senator.

Wilson Confined to His Bed
President Wilson, who is suffering from a severe cold taken a week ago, and made worse at his inauguration on Monday, remained in bed today by order of his physician, Dr. Cary T. Grayson. Just how soon the President will take steps to call the extra session of Congress could not be learned tonight. He was informed of the result of the vote in the Senate and was pleased, although he had no statement to make.

The President during the past few days has been considering the question of arming United States merchant ships whether Congress gave him that permission or not, as the highest legal authorities have informed him that the Constitution gave him that right without further consent. But he has also intimated that if the Senate passed a resolution limiting debate in that body, which would allow the passing of the armed-neutrality bill he would wait the action of Congress.

With the session of Congress, if it is called by the President, little time will be lost, is the belief here, in the passing of the bill. Congressmen and Senators are satisfied that the wishes of the people in the great majority of cases, favor the passing of this measure and it is doubtful if, at the beginning of the session, they will care to vote directly against the will of their constituents. The House of Representatives had already passed the bill giving the President the needed authority and more than ninety per cent of the Senate is known to be favorable. The President will issue the order to the ships as soon as Congress passes the bill.

FRANK J. PHILBRICK, SECRETARY OF THE PORTSMOUTH ATHLETIC CLUB, WAS GUEST OF HONOR LAST EVENING.

The members of the Portsmouth Athletic Club tendered a reception and party to the secretary, Frank J. Philbrick, at the club last evening in honor of the anniversary of his birth. The occasion was made pleasant by the many good wishes extended to him, the speakers expressing the esteem in which he is held by his many friends. The dinner was presided over by Fred W. Coleman, president of the club, who officiated as toastmaster.

J. Norris Parker was the winner of the weekly whist tournament which was played last evening.

MONGOLIA REACHES LONDON

New York, March 8.—The American steamship Mongolia of the Atlantic Transport Line, which left here Feb. 20 with cargo and 1200 sacks of United States mail, the first American vessel to leave with mail since the German war zone declarations, arrived safely in London March 5, according to cable advices received here today.

At least there is some consolation, the dust isn't troubling us to any extent.

FISHING LICENSE MEASURE MAY GET AN AMENDMENT

Concord, March 8.—A suggestion was made yesterday by a house leader to the committee on fisheries and game which may change the complexion of the general bill to be reported to the house as it relates to the establishment of a fishery license.

The member in question believes a fishing license measure will pass the house if it is so amended as to permit residents of a town to fish in the waters of their own town without being required to pay a license fee. It is intimated that a fishing license for everybody who desires to fish will meet the disapproval of many people who have long been accustomed to fish small ponds throughout the state for pinks, pickerel, bass, perch and other fish than brook trout.

Such exemption would extend to no person beyond the limits of the town of which he is a resident. It is suggested in view of the fact that such exemption being made in the fishing license act that a straight fishing license for non-residents be fixed at two dollars instead of one, as previously recommended by the committee on fish and game.

Senator Bates of Rochester, Senator Martin of Concord and Senator Free Tuition and Judge of Probate Page of Portsmouth addressed the senate today in the order named with reference to House Bill No. 503, a bill in relation to free tuition in high schools and academies; House Bill No. 500, in relation to vacancy in the office of judge of probate, and House Bill No. 200, an act to provide whole family protection by fraternal societies.

On motion of the senators named above, these several bills were recalled from the hands of the governor, returned to the senate and put back upon their second reading for purposes of amendment and referred to the appropriate committees. It appears that some errors were found in these bills, and this for the purpose of correction that the senate has asked for their return.

PHOSPHORUS SMOKE USED TO SAVE SHIPS FROM U-BOATS

Philadelphia, March 8.—At present there are five British vessels in the harbor here equipped with the new mysterious smoke apparatus which is believed will completely screen them from the view of raiding submarines, making it impossible for the U-boat to successfully launch a torpedo with any certainty of making a hit. Two drums are attached to the after deck of the vessel, one on each side, and these are filled with phosphorus. When the lookout sights a submarine an order is given to fire the phosphorus in the drums. Almost immediately heavy clouds of black smoke begin to pour from the containers. The ship is entirely enveloped in the smoke and she leaves such a long trail of the heavy smoke in her wake that the submarine cannot locate the fleeing vessel. It is understood that a number of merchant ships, unarmed and engaged in carrying munitions, are being equipped with these "smoke makers." American ship owners are interested in the apparatus and agents of the American Line have been here to investigate them. It is believed that they may be tried on some of the liners if the armed neutrality bill fails to pass Congress.

WOULD FORCE WILSON'S IDEA ON ENGLAND

IRISH NATIONALISTS APPEAL TO AMERICA FOR AID IN HOME RULE FIGHT

London, March 8.—Members of the Irish party who last night forced to an issue in the House of Commons, the question of home rule for Ireland, today issued a manifesto asking Irish-Americans and Americans generally to aid them in the movement.

The appeal pleaded for pressure to be exerted on the British government for application by England to Ireland of the principles as to self-government enunciated by President Wilson in his speech to the United States Senate.

The Nationalist members of Parliament were holding a meeting to discuss the situation arising out of the debate in the lower House last night on the question for home rule for Ireland and did not put in an appearance when the speaker took his chair in the House of Commons this afternoon. Nationalists of the William O'Brien group and Laurence Ginnell, independent Nationalist member for North Westmeath, were the only occupants the benches usually occupied by the Irishmen.

The Nationalists at their meeting passed a resolution declaring that the Irish party should remain in London in its full strength. It further was decided that the party, while retaining its attitude towards the war and remaining firmly convinced of the justice of the cause of the entente allies, felt bound to oppose the government by all the means in its power.

For the first time since he assumed the premiership Lloyd George today faced a bitter minority of opposition in the House of Commons.

The division, long expected, comes over the Irish home rule question. Yesterday's debate in the House of Commons was the most bitter in months. It resulted in formal withdrawal from the sitting of the Irish Nationalists as a protest against form of settlement of the perplexing question suggested by the premier—that home rule could be had by any part of Ireland desiring it, but that coercion would not be employed to force Ulsters acquiescence.

The Irish Nationalists were to meet today in conference. The greatest interest attached to their decision as to a future policy. Speculation on what

LIKE ELECTRIC BUTTON ON TOES

Tells why a corn is so painful and says cutting makes them grow.

Press an electric button and you form a contact with a live wire which rings the bell. When your shoes press against your corn it pushes its sharp roots down upon a sensitive nerve and you get a shock of pain.

Instead of trimming your corns, which merely makes them grow, just step into any drug store and ask for a quarter of an ounce of freestone. This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. A few drops applied directly upon a tender, itching corn stops the soreness instantly, and soon the corn shrivels up so it falls right out, root and all, without pain. This drug is harmless and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue of skin.

SANFORD MAN WANTS $20,000

Darius P. Rankin of Sanford, Me., has brought suit in Massachusetts in the sum of $20,000 against Thomas J. Reilly of Canton, Mass., alleging alienation of his wife's affections.

The sudden disappearance within a few days of each other of Mrs. Rankin and Reilly from Canton, followed by the filing of the $20,000 alienation suit against Reilly by Mr. Rankin, formerly of Canton has caused no little excitement among the acquaintances of the parties involved.

Mr. Rankin, who is about 45 years old, and his wife, Rose Rankin, several years his junior, lived for several years in Canton and Mr. Rankin held an important position in one of the mills of the town. Mrs. Rankin is an attractive woman and has many friends. Mr. Rankin had been ill for some time when, last spring, he was stricken with what his friends understood to be a shock. Shortly after that he returned to his native home in Sanford, Mrs. Rankin remaining in Sanford.

Mr. Reilly, who maintains a large garage and auto repair shop, about six weeks ago informed several friends that he had decided to take a vacation. He went away leaving no address with his friends.

Within a few days earlier or later, Mrs. Rankin packed up her furniture and other belongings and gave directions that they be sent to her home in Maine. She took part of her clothing and other effects and left town. No address was left behind.

Several days after this two brothers of Darius Rankin appeared in Canton. They asked questions relative to Mrs. Rankin and had her goods shipped as directed. Later an attachment for $20,000 was placed on Mr. Reilly's real estate. The writ which was filed at that time has just become returnable and the declaration which has been entered in the office of the clerk of courts at Dedham alleges that Mr. Reilly, aiming to deprive Rankin of the society and company of his wife, Rosa Rankin, and to alienate her affections, on January 1, 1917, induced and enticed her to desert him and go away. As a result, Mr. Rankin claims he has lost his wife's affections.

"Belly Patriotism."

A member of a committee on the question of food supply and prices in a New England city recently remarked to the other members that "With potatoes at $1.25 a peck you cannot instill a great deal of patriotism."

This expression called out a dignified, but deserved rebuke from one of the newspapers of the city, which considered it a severe reflection on the people of the country to insinuate that they care more for the fullness of their stomachs than they do for the good and safety of the nation.

As evidence that this is not so the paper recalled a few scraps of history showing how the people of earlier days met the conditions, which were a great deal more trying than they are now or are likely to become, whatever happens. In the Old World and in this country people have suffered hunger and all the other hardships and privations of war for the sake of principle. They are doing this in Europe today, and to what extent, if any, it will have to be done in this country remains to be seen, but there is nothing more certain than that if the pinch comes the people will rise to the occasion and it will be found that patriotism does not depend upon the price of potatoes or any other commodity.

The American people are used to luxuries. Some of them have more than they can actually afford, but they have them and are prone to complain loudly when anything interferes with their indulgence. Of late there has been just cause for complaint of the cost of living, because the trouble has not been due to shortage so much as to manipulation, but the conditions have not robbed the people of their patriotism and their readiness to stand by the best government in the world in case the need of defenders arises.

This is true of the people as a whole. But there are exceptions to all rules, and there are individuals who think more of their stomachs and their pocketbooks than of anything else in the world. Patriotism means to them a full dinner pail and a stuffed wallet, but the people as a whole are not built that way and are as truly patriotic today as they ever were. This country is not yet given over to what this protesting New England newspaper justly brands as "belly patriotism."

Many people in Washington were fooled the other day by a woman who cleverly impersonated Miss Rankin, the new congresswoman, or congresswoman, from Montana, who had not yet arrived for the inauguration ceremonies. And there were many men in the inauguration assemblage who would have felt better if another man had stood in the place of President Wilson. But the country as a whole is satisfied with its decision and will stand by the President as firm as the Rock of Gibraltar. The man who receives the most votes is president of all the people.

There is no reason to believe that the picketing of the White House will be of any assistance to the cause of suffrage. The picketers have sensibly refrained from law breaking, but their work has not commanded the admiration of the country, and the sooner all such tactics are abandoned the better it will be for them and their cause.

Sleighrides are not as popular as they used to be before the days of the automobile. The music of the horn is now considered superior to that of the bells, and the speed of the auto makes the gait of the best horses seem painfully slow. And nothing slow is wanted in these days except by the slow.

Mr. Roosevelt answers Mr. Bryan's challenge to a joint debate of the question of preparedness with the assertion that the subject is not debatable. But that is the case with most subjects on which Mr. Roosevelt has taken a stand.

Let it not be overlooked that the senators who "thwarted the will of Congress" acted strictly within their legal rights. And this is not the first time that legal action has been distasteful to the country.

Editorial Comment

Nation's House in Order

(From the Baltimore American)

Yes, March has come. It has come with its new broom to sweep things clean. In order to lay the dust, so that its vigorous sweeping shall not stir up things too much, it has scattered some snow over the fields. The coming of the sun in strength will see the passing of the snow and then the winds of March will dry the surface of the soil melted by the frost, saturated by rain and by melting snow, and every molecule of the loam will be in exact adjustment for every other molecule for that great reproductive feat of spring's germination.

But there is a lot of debris to be gotten rid of, leaves and grass and withered vestiges of last summer's glory. Much of this has been put into the press of winter and its substance squeezed into the soil, much of it has been used for the protection of the next life beneath the surface. The real due must be gotten rid of. This will be done by the broom of March. What current it does stir up, currents of air that swirl and sweep and eddy! Yes, March has entered upon the field of its industry. Once in a while it will get out the sprinkling can and sprinkle the rainfall over the soil or, perhaps, with its sieve, it will sift some snowflakes in places where these can yet be used, preliminary to its great work of sowing the house of nature in order.

Oh, yes, the dressing of the fields in and the preparation of the forests for their growing is a work of great intrinsic value. If March gets out of patience at times and is blustering or even furious, this is not a matter of wonder. The time is short before the lachrymose April tender attendant of jubilation spring shall be sent in advance of the cortege of marvelous pagentry to scatter the advanced blooms over the soil whose preparation has been the duty of March. The time is short and March must be up and doing. Night and day must it labor until all things are ready. Then, when the blue bird attunes its voice to the keynote have passed away from its labors and spring in diaphanous garb of tender green, with her floral maidens and her trumpeters, will be advancing in the great spectacular progress that has constituted the world's most dramatic pantomime since the earth first had being.

Unanimous Consent! Ended in the Senate

(From the Boston Herald)

Unless the recalcitrant senators, of whom there are only two or three left should bluster against the submission to roll-call of the proposal which both Democratic and Republican caucuses have now adopted for modifying the unanimous consent theory—and the chances of any such filibuster are too remote for consideration—one ancient law of the United States Senate has come to an end. "Unanimous consent" is dead. The modifying rule is not radical. It will be seldom invoked. It is much like the Aldrich-Vreeland law, for use in times of financial stringency of which somebody said the knowledge of its existence would suffice to accomplish the purpose of its enactment.

The new rule provides that the debate may be closed in the Senate on a written motion signed by sixteen members, submitted the following day to roll-call, and then supported by a two-thirds majority—or by sixty-four senators. Rarely does one party have so large a fraction as this, and so the rule will not ordinarily put a new weapon in the hands of King Caucus. It would, for example, take more than a decree of the Democratic caucus in the present administration to send a measure against which the Republican minority might be making a last ditch fight, to such a roll-call for the purpose of closing debate.

We believe this change in the main desirable, although not overlooking the important contribution which the "unanimous consent" idea had made to defense of minority rights. A type of pork barrel bills, which have been talked to death in the past, will doubtless become law now, since more than two-thirds of the members will have a stake in the distribution.

There is no guarantee, however, that a minority is more sane-minded or virtuous than the majority. Unanimous consent has operated not only to enthrone a vigilant minority, but often as a weapon in legislative blackmail. The unscrupulous senator could rise in early March to say that if the item for his own city was not accepted by the conference on the part of the other house, he should proceed to talk the bill to death. And his associates have usually yielded. Millions of dollars have in this way gone out of the treasury into projects of wastefulness as the necessary price for avoiding a filibuster.

The Wilson administration has proved a period of great dynamic changes in our own history as well as in that of the greater world. And not least of the events of this dramatic period is the abrupt ending of an ancient institution. It will be a different Senate without "unanimous consent." Even though its members seldom have resort to the new rule, they will do business with the knowledge that it is where it can be reached. So far as the parliamentary history of that body is concerned, the change now pending we may properly describe as epoch-making.

Missouri Has Been Shown

(From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

A Wisconsin legislator has wired Senator La Follette to "cut out the talk and get behind the President." The same sort of message should be sent from other states to other Senators. Unfortunately, no state has greater cause to send one than Missouri. The telegraphing should not be confined to those who occupy official station at home. Citizens generally should make known their protests against the new brand of congressional patriotism.

For an Efficient Cabinet

(From the New York Sun)

Mr. Wilson has a passion for making new precedents. How could he better establish his fame than by being the first President utterly to ignore politics in forming his cabinet, the first to make technical knowledge, rather than political activity, the one qualification of a Secretary of War, of the Navy or of anything else?

Naming the Disease

(From the New York World)

In Argentina the German idea of making war upon the United States with the help of Mexico and Japan is pronounced "ultimo loco," which is interpreted as clear crazy. Some western courts in criminal cases have called the madly circular insanity, but here in New York it is known judicially as brain-storm.

ALLEGED GERMAN SPY IS ARRESTED

At the Home of a Prominent California Music Publisher.

(Special to The Herald)

Los Angeles, March 9.—Captain Alfred Switzer, an officer of the German navy was arrested at the Alhambra home of Frank Hart, president of the Southern Music Company today and held for complicity in the German spy plot.

Switzer is alleged to have been connected with the Welland Canal plot in Canada and with later plots in this country.

Switzer was arrested after a six months' search. He had returned here only yesterday. On learning of his presence, Special Agents Blanford and Rhoden immediately went to the home of Mr. Hart who some time ago had employed Switzer as a ranch hand and he was placed under arrest at seven o'clock this morning.

The prisoner said he returned a few days ago from Cuba, but had previously been at Vera Cruz with the intention of going to Mexico City, but was prevented by the railroad being torn up.

deafness. There seems to be a suspicion in some quarters that he acquired it by keeping his ear too close to the ground.

Improve the Postal Service

(From the Hartford Courant, Rep.)

The proposal for reducing the cost of letter postage has fallen dead again. There were only two things in its favor. Such a measure might form a basis for a demagogic claim of helping the poor, while in fact the poor would not be affected by it a particle. A one-cent postal card would be cheaper than a one-cent letter, where paper and envelope had to be bought. The second argument for it would be that it would help the big mail order stores and other concerns that do immense business through the post office. They may feel badly.

Now that the dog is dead, why not realize it and turn from demagogery to business? What everybody in the United States wants is prompt and sure mail service. Do we get that now? Ask anybody. The postal service is a joke. It has been made so largely by the efforts to keep down expense and at the same time to humor those who are employed by reducing their hours of work. Increase your gross business, reduce your working force, lessen the hours for each to work, and then what? Why, then demoralization, and that's "where we are at."

If the Administration wanted to make itself solid with the country, it would get busy about improving the postal service. Will it? More employees, better pay for them, and better results for the public.

Draft the "Slackers"

(From the Waterbury American)

The best argument in favor of universal military training is that it is democratic. The volunteer system is heroic, and we are used to it. But it leaves the burden of national defense on those who constitute our best citizenship and lets the slackers escape. We ought to save some of our best stock by making the poorest do its share of the dangerous work.

When War Gets to the Rhine

(From the Toronto Mail and Empire)

That the war may have a long way to go appears more probable from the fact that even the driving of the German army to the line of the Rhine would leave the eastern question unsettled unless the Russians at the same time were able to fight back to East Prussia and the Silesian border. Such tremendous changes are involved, territorially and militarily, to achieve a position in which the Germans would have to give up, that peace this year it is at least doubtful. But the summer campaign seems almost certain to break the back of German land power.

Next-Iron Crosses!

(From the New York Herald)

Mr. George Sylvester Viereck's characterization of them as "the heroic twelve" ought to be salve to the wound of the Van Follotters. It at least shows a measure of appreciation on the part of that portion of Prussianism working on American soil.

(From the Buffalo Express)

The Kaiser's "twelve good men and true."

We May Survive German Plots

(From the Hartford Courant)

There are gleams of light in the otherwise gloomy darkness and one of these comes by way of the Slovak meeting held in Bridgeport on Sunday at which ex-President Taft was a speaker. At this meeting a Slovak priest, pointing to the United States flag said:

Fellow Slovaks, our ideals are realized in that flag. It symbolizes the only place on God's own sphere, where life is worth living and sacrifices worth making. It is a symbol of a country with a true freedom with individual responsibility. Of personal happiness with full regard for others. That flag stands for that for which we have been struggling for many decades and could not realize in the land of our cradle. It or not, and American women can beneath that flag we shall stand firm and faithful. And even though others shrink or flee, even though the clouds of gloom and despair may darken faithfully and loyally we shall uphold that flag until the storm ceases and calm is restored.

It may yet be possible to save the country.

Printed on "Merchandise"

(From the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.)

Coming at this juncture, when a wave of patriotism is sweeping over the land, it is somewhat of a shock to learn that the Iowa Department of Justice has ruled that newspapers printing the American flag at the head of their editorial columns, or at any other place, are violating the Federal law. The decision is based on the provision that no flag or representation of the national flag shall be printed or stamped on any article of merchandise.

"Merchandise" is thus defined in the New Standard Dictionary, which is generally accepted as an authority: "Merchandise—Anything movable customarily bought and sold for profit; especially commodities traded in by merchants." It has been the general supposition that the law applied only in the case of such use of the flag by merchants, promoters, agents and others in advertising their wares, or what ever they had for sale, and therefore it is surprising to find the Iowa Department of Justice ruling that the newspaper is an article of merchandise, but even admitting that it is—which it is not—the newspaper that prints the American flag is doing a patriotic deed that should be applauded, not discouraged. For such newspapers carry the Stars and Stripes into thousands of homes, and are teaching a lesson in patriotism to all, from the wee child to the grand sire. The Iowa decision is, ultimately, to say the least about it.

Fort Funston

(From the Worcester Telegram)

Fort Funston is the name proposed for the latest and most important fortifications for the protection of New York harbor from invading enemies, which are being constructed on Rockaway point. It is the best name, considering the fact that General Fred Funston was the greatest emergency fighter in the United States army for years.

"Sow an Act, and Reap a Habit"

(From the Toronto Mail and Empire)

We do not know how strong are the positions upon which the German forces to the North of the Aene are retreating but we do know that if the German forces had not been too weak to maintain themselves in the strong hold of Japan, there would have been no falling back. They fell back, not from necessity, and after a while it will be from habit.

Add "Questionable Distinctions"

(From the New York Herald)

Every state that contributed to that array of willful men has reason to hang its head in shame; but even at that should there not be room for pity for the state of Allison and Dooliver, which contributes two to the list?

Mighty National Asset

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger)

The Pennsylvania Railroad's annual report, as for a generation or more, reads like an epic of the American industry. Not only is it the largest railroad in the world, but it is the most representative in the character of its operations. The Pennsylvania has the largest number of shareholders, the smallest relative funded debt, carries the most passengers and the most freight of any railroad. This company's system, east and west, surpassed with its business in 1916 all previous years. Totals were truly stupendous—gross operating revenue of $143,000,000, an increase of more than $8,000,000 compared with 1915, while gross income rose to the magnificent sum of $148,000,000, being a gain of more than $26,000,000.

These figures represent very graphically the vast floodtide of American industrial activity. The company's policy under President Rea continues up to its historic line laid down long ago. While the Pennsylvania earned, for percent on its half billion of outstanding stock, it gave the shareholders but six percent, thus conserving resources and providing for the upbuilding of its enormous property. President Rea has something to say in his report about taxes which furnishes a text for thought on the part of all business. In ten years the Pennsylvania's taxes have risen 123 per cent, a growth so enormous as to call for most serious apprehension.

The solidity and the general efficiency of the Pennsylvania Railroad are matters about which this whole community and indeed the nation may congratulate themselves. Looked at broadly, it is one of our mighty country's mightiest possessions. To manage this railroad property calls for a degree of industrial statesmanship of the highest order, and it is no wonder the Pennsylvania is popularly styled the Standard Railroad of America.

Where Women Should March

(From the New York Evening Sun)

This is no time for demonstrations at Washington or anywhere else in the United States by woman suffragists or other political agitators whose activities most embarrass the Administration. When war came to England the English women marched to the Red Cross recruiting stations. War has almost come to the United States, already whether Congress is willing to admit it or not, and American women can best prove their qualification for the ballot by recognizing the grim fact and acting accordingly.

As an investment

From "Glad's Topics of the Town" in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.) Europe has sold very nearly all its Pennsylvania Railroad stock. Formerly over a third of it was owned abroad and now less than one-third-third is in foreign hands.

What does that signify? First, that Europeans needed the money and sold out; and second, that hereafter Pennsylvania dividend checks will nearly all remain in the U. S. A.

Only one dollar in seven earned by the Pennsylvania was required to pay interest on its funded debt, which makes a Pennsylvania bond assume the solidity appertaining to the Alleghenies which it surmounts. The Pennsylvania now earns from its investments nearly twice enough to pay interest on its own debt. Theoretically it could stop all trains and still not go into the hands of a receiver.

Big as the Pennsylvania system's gross revenue was, it would only pay the bills for this infernal war for five days!

In sixteen years the property value of the Pennsylvania system was doubled. It is now one and three-quarter billion dollars.

Sixteen years ago the sum earned on the whole sum invested in the property was a shade over six per cent. Now it is five and four-fifths per cent. The Pennsylvania owns stocks and bonds with a par value of $436,000,000 but they are carried on the books of the company at $99,000,000 less than that.

In running 100 miles a Pennsylvania locomotive ate up $2.60 worth of coal. Counting repairs, depreciation, fuel and lubricants, one locomotive costs $23 for every 100 miles, and that does not include pay for the men who run it.

The Pennsy hauled in a year 198,000 tons of liquor against 135,000 tons of cotton and $9,000 tons of tobacco.

Letters from the People

Much Pleased With Increased Vote.

Editor—A vote on the bill providing for municipal, county, and presidential suffrage for New Hampshire women had been made a special order for Wednesday morning, March 7, in the House. This vote was taken after a long debate. The vote stood 201 against and 152 for the bill. Four counties, Merrimack, Sullivan, Strafford and Grafton, gave a majority for suffrage. Two years ago the vote on a similar suffrage bill stood 230 against, 121 for, and Grafton county was the only county giving a majority for suffrage.

The debate was a spirited one. Those representatives who spoke against the bill were State of Exeter, Abby Wolfboro, Pender of Portsmouth, Bell of Exeter, Conner of Manchester, Chaffs of Manchester.

Wood of Portsmouth, Hyde of Hanover, Robert Murchie of Concord, Page of Gilmanston, Kimball of Marlboro, Cummings of Littleton, Eastman of Jefferson, Abner of Concord, Couch of Concord, spoke for the bill.

An analysis of the vote shows that more than one-half of the Democrats voting voted for the bill; while the Republicans voted nearly two to one against it. The friends of suffrage are gratified by the 25 percent gain over two years ago. They are especially proud of the progressive men who not only voted for the bill, but made such splendid arguments in favor of the enfranchisement of New Hampshire women.

The vote in Rockingham county was 10 for and 21 against the bill. In Portsmouth the vote was five for suffrage and three against, and one absent. The Portsmouth men voting for the bill were Soule, Bartlett, Wood, Badger, and Downe. Those voting against it were Sanderson, Pender and Casey. Dickey was absent.

Immediately after adjournment of the House the suffrage leaders met for a conference at the Equal Suffrage Headquarters, at which plans were made for work during the coming months, to be begun at once.

MISS MARTHA S. KIMBALL.

Editor—To settle an argument as to the date when the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge was built, will you please print the date of construction.

Wants Noise Stopped

Editor—Allow me to suggest to the teachers in charge of the recreation room for children in the South-Ward Room building that they make some effort to check the noise of boys and girls on the respective nights that they occupy the building and see that they go directly to their homes or away from the neighborhood. The disturbance is unbearable when they get into the street, much to the annoyance of sick people and sleeping children. Both boys and girls share equal in this boisterous conduct and it is

M'CALL ASKS GOVERNORS TO CONFERENCE

Seeks Concerted Action by New England States in Emergency.

In order that all New England states may work in harmony in plans for national defense, Governor McCall yesterday sent a formal invitation to the governors of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island and Connecticut to confer with him at the State House Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Concerted action is what the governor wants. In the event of a declaration of war, and each of the visiting governors is requested to bring with him his chief of staff or adjutant general. During their stay in Boston for the conference the governors and their staff officers will be the guests of the Commonwealth.

DOINGS OF THE LEGISLATURE

The Past Week Has Been a Busy One With Members of House.

The past week in the New Hampshire legislature has been a busy one and the members of the lower body have found time to take very much taken up with house session and committee hearings. On Thursday the committee on Roads, Bridges and Canals reported favorably on the bill providing for the appointment of a commission to act with a similar commission from the state of Maine to take steps towards freeing the highway connecting the two states across the Piscataqua river. The committee also reported favorably on the House Joint Resolution No. 24, introduced by Representative Sanderson for the governor and council to appoint a commission to consider the feasibility of taking over the Hampton river bridge. Both bills were referred to the committee on Appropriations.

The Suffrage Bill. Principal interest was centered in the suffrage bill which was made the special bill for Wednesday. The house and gallery were filled to their utmost capacity, there being a good representation of the fair sex present to hear the arguments advanced by both the supporters and opponents of the bill. The Portsmouth delegation furnished two of the most able speakers of the day. Representative Woods spoke in favor of granting the right of suffrage, while Representative Pender in his own vigorous style opposed it. The remarks of both gentlemen were attentively listened to and evidently each made a favorable impression with their respective sides.

Dover Armory Hearing. If our neighboring city of Dover does not get an appropriation for an armory in that city at the present session of the legislature it will not be due to any lack of energy on the part of her citizens. On Tuesday, a hearing was held before the committee on Appropriations and Mayor Backwell, ex-Mayors Whitcomb and Foster, Col. Thomas Deane and the entire Dover delegation were present to advance their claims. Chairman McKay, Chaffs and Sanderson of the military committee also appeared in the interest of the passage of the resolution. Captain Cornell and Lieut. Cassidy of the Dover company were also present. In the absence of Chairman Pynch who was known bound, Mr. Fairbanks of Manchester presided.

Military Bill Introduced

The committee on military affairs of the house held a session on Thursday afternoon at which time the new military bill was read and later introduced as a common committee measure to the house. The bill is a lengthy one, and 45 minutes time was required by Chairman McKay and the clerk in reading the lengthy document. The joint resolutions asking for the construction of armories at Exeter and Jackson were referred to the next legislature. The committee will hold a hearing on Thursday, March 16 at 4:30 o'clock on Senate Joint Resolution No. 1, introduced by Senator Page, relating to the state gun house at Portsmouth.

Wanted Him to Keep Awake

A good story is being told at the expense of one of the up-start members of the house. During one of the early days of the present session that was devoted principally to the introduction and reading of bills, the gentleman referred to fell asleep and with his doubt dreaming of other matters (that sage of Mountbarn, that gentleman's eagle eye was quick to discern him). He called a page and immediately dispatched a note to the sleeping statesman telling him to keep awake and look after the state's business. That command was heeded.

time the teachers took some action for the relief of nearby residents.

AMERICAN SHIPS HAVE LANDED 400 MEN AT SANTIAGO

Blue Jackets From the U. S. S. San Francisco and Other Ships Have Taken Charge of City.

Santiago, Cuba, March 8.—Four hundred men from American warships have landed and taken charge in Santiago, Cuba.

The cable fields and the Union Sugar mill at San Luis, ten miles north of Santiago, are burning. The people of San Luis are greatly alarmed and have built barricades in the streets, expecting an attack from the rebels.

The Americans were landed from the mineships San Francisco, the cruiser Olympia and the gunboats Petrel and Macfish.

The people of Santiago have regained confidence since the landing of the Americans. There has been no fighting here as a result of the arrival of the American guards. Heavy fighting is reported in the vicinity of Palma. Several many civilians are leaving the city to join the constitutional army. General Munoz, civil governor of Santiago, yesterday requested of the American consul that marines be landed to protect the city.

Colonel Betancourt, of the Menocal forces, is preparing to attack Santiago. It is reported that Palma mill has been destroyed.

Government forces, commanded by Col. Varona, have landed at Auilla, on the northern coast of Oriente province, directly across the island from Santiago.

Lieutenant John C. Cunningham, of the United States mine layer San Francisco, who carried to the Menocal forces, the proclamation of the United States naval forces, has returned after having interviewed Col. Munoz Betancourt, commanding the Menocal troops. Colonel Betancourt refused to consider the proclamation, stating that he accepts orders only from President Menocal. Colonel Betancourt is preparing to attack Santiago.

GOVERNMENT WORK ON A TEN PER CENT BASIS

Builders Agree With Secretary Daniels to Rush All Naval Construction.

Washington, March 8.—American shipbuilders engaged on government work entered into an agreement with Secretary Daniels to accept new contracts at a flat rate of 10 per cent. net profit, and pledged co-operation to the fullest extent of their ability in rushing to completion the navy's construction program.

Virtually all of the larger private plants in the country were represented in the conference. The builders, who have been netting from 20 to 30 per cent. on merchant steamers, said they were willing to turn to government contracts at 10 per cent., as a patriotic duty and the secretary on his part agreed to protect them from undue loss. As a result, for the present at least, the government will not consider the authority given by Congress to commander plants.

The next step of the department will be to call upon builders not engaged in government work to undertake such tasks as they are equipped to carry out. For the most part this will consist of some destroyers. An understudy of building submarine chasers and standing also will be sought to prevent yards doing private work from drawing men from those with navy contracts.

The companies represented today will furnish Secretary Daniels not later than Monday with schedules of all commercial work in their yards or for which they have contracts. Details of the capitalization of each concern, its fixed charges, material contracts, plans of enlargement and number of employees will be included. A definite statement of the amount and kind of additional government work that could be undertaken, with an estimate of what might be accomplished in a year's time, also will be submitted by each builder.

The department is in correspondence with steel makers and other manufacturers who supply material for warships. Similar assurances of co-operation are expected from them. Mr. Daniels said he hoped to interfere with commercial building just as little as possible, but that nothing would be allowed to stand in the way of supplying the navy with ships and munitions as rapidly as is possible.

Needs of Navy Paramount. All of the conferences and other preliminary measures are preparatory to the issuing by President Wilson of a proclamation declaring that a national emergency exists which requires the use of the unusual powers granted him by Congress to hasten naval construction. After that step has been taken the emergency fund of more than $100,000,000 provided for the purpose will be available to pay for high speed construction and the department will be in a position to require any shipbuilder or manufacturer to begin at once on work assigned to him.

When the problem of placing new ships in yards best fitted to do fast work has been studied out the question of getting ways clear of merchant tonnage now under construction will be taken up. Wherever possible such ships will be rushed to completion and delivered to their owners. No new merchant ships will be laid down, however, until the needs of the navy have been satisfied.

NAVY NOTES

Navy to Use Drydock. Boston's big drydock is now positively assured of a subsidy of $300,000 payable at the rate of $50,000 a year for six years, according to a telegram which the Waterways Commission received from Senator Weeks on Thursday. Senator Weeks' telegram stated that the President signed the bill authorizing the navy department to make a contract for the use of the dock.

Navy May Get Big Tug. Among the coastwise vessels which the United States government proposes to requisition in case of war, is the big ocean tug Cuba, one of the largest and most powerful of her type on the coast.

It has just been learned that an amazing offer by representatives of the British government for the purchase of the Cuba was turned down by the Staples Coal Company because of President Wilson's proclamation forbidding sale or charter of American craft during the present crisis.

Big Pay Day. The yard mechanics and laborers were paid on Thursday and the amount distributed by the station paymaster was the largest in many years.

Going to Haiti. Sergeant Major Green, U. S. M. C., attached to the naval prison, has been ordered to duty at Haiti.

A New Member. H. A. Schmidt, a former clarinetist of the U. S. S. North Carolina, has been transferred to the naval band at the yard.

Ordered to Washington. Naval Constructor Adams has been ordered to Washington for a conference with the secretary of the navy and other heads of departments. He leaves the yard on Saturday.

POLICE NEWS

Adasso Pinto, 13 years old, and a native of the island of Jamaica, was the innocent cause of a lot of excitement for the other members of her family as well as the police. Adasso has been domiciled with her married sister, off Market street. On Thursday another sister and a brother came up from Portland and unexpectedly called upon the other two members of the family. The reunion was not a real demonstration of personal attachment or ardent affection, according to all accounts and the arguments whether Adasso should reside in Maine or New Hampshire came thick and fast.

The Portsmouth sister objected to the younger girl packing her trunk for Cumberland county, but the Portland visitors said Adasso was going back to Maine and they shan't leave her off to the Boston & Maine depot. They were hardly on their way when they goes the telephone at the police headquarters. The report that there was a case of kidnapping for the police to look up came to the ear of the man at the station desk.

Officer Philbrick trotted up to the depot and found the trio ready to board the train for Dover. He marched them all back before the board of arbitration and conciliation and the session lasted for nearly two hours.

Family history was aired, epitaphs by no means complimentary were tossed about, and Biblical quotations added to the occasion of confusion. In the final act the chief of police ruled that the Portland members of the family had as much right to chaperone Adasso as her Portsmouth sister and allowed them to continue with her back to the Forest City.

OLYMPIA THEATRE NOTES.

The majority of the citizens in this world are copies, not originals. "O'Brien—Did yez convince Cassidy that he was in the wrong?" Mulligan—O! dunnav it O! convinced him, but O! made him own up to it.

Stimulating talk of the past, wise men of the present, fools of the future. Nothing is more difficult than to decide.

Our program, which we offer to the public on Friday and Saturday, is undoubtedly the best we have given this year so far.

One of these pictures is "The Female of the Species," a Triangle-Thomas Inc.-Kay Bee production.

It is seldom these days that critics will have over a picture, but this is precisely what they did over this picture.

It is sort of a refined vampire picture and is a character contrast between women, represented by Dorothy Dalton and Edith Markey.

One woman keeps safely within the bounds of social usage, while the other dares to step over the line in obedience to the daring dictates of her heart.

This play will surely go over big and you will hear much about it.

It is encouraging to see these original stories on the screen, and the time is not far away when they will all be original.

"The Female of the Species" goes to the edge of a tremendous and vital question.

"Black Orchids" is the Blue Bird picture on the bill.

To date this is the greatest of some seventy-five Blue Bird pictures.

It features beautiful Cleo Madison. We recall that recently Miss Madison was married, a few days after the completion of "Black Orchids," and it was said at the time if her husband could have seen the picture he might have hesitated at the altar.

The play is one of surpassing beauty, with Cleo Madison in the role of a sorceress.

There is a tense and tragic interest in the progress of the sorceress' heartless treatment of men who fawned at her feet; there is a great and purposeful mission in this gripping production.

Mrs. Vernon Castle stars in the sixth episode of the great preparedness serial, "Patria."

In this episode we see the triumph of double photography, wherein Mrs. Castle opposes herself in many of the scenes.

This serial picture is the greatest ever shown in this city, and has a large following, perhaps the big reason for it is that there is some sense to the plot, and the picture is not full of impossible situations and contrivances.

MILITARY BILL IS INTRODUCED IN THE HOUSE

Calls for Unorganized Body of Men Between Ages of 18 and 45 Years.

Concord, March 8.—Military affairs came to the front in the legislature yesterday, when the house committee received the bill drafted under the direction of Governor Keyes with the assistance of Adjutant General Howard and the other officers of the national guard, on which they have been working for two weeks or more. The bill, as presented to the committee, is a compilation of existing laws with eliminations and additions prompted by present conditions.

The measure is similar to those enacted in other New England states, notably Vermont and Connecticut and under consideration in Maine.

The bill provides that all male citizens and male residents of the state who have declared their intention of becoming citizens of the United States, between the ages of 18 and 45 years of age, not exempted by law, shall be subjected to military duty and designated as "the militia."

The militia is divided into two classes—the unorganized militia and the national guard. The latter includes all male citizens between the ages given.

In time of war, invasion, rebellion, or riot, or reasonable apprehension thereof, or on requisition by the President of the United States, the government shall order out for active service such portions of the unorganized militia as he may deem necessary, the drafts being equitably apportioned among the cities and towns.

There are four classes of the unorganized militia in the order of which they shall be called out. These classes are as follows:

First class—Unmarried men between 18 and 25 years.

Second class—Unmarried men between 25 and 45 years.

Third class—Married men between 18 and 25 years.

Fourth class—Married men between 25 and 45 years.

No draft of any subsequent class shall be made until the preceding class has been exhausted, the bill maintains.

Tabulation of all male residents in the state and full information regarding them shall be made every year in April and placed on file with the adjutant general.

The bill is one of the longest of the present session.

American enterprises in China and the renewed efforts of Japanese bankers to entrench themselves more thoroughly through loans of various sorts are widely discussed in the Chinese press as well as in parliament. The following statement from the Peking Daily News is representative of the view generally taken by the Chinese Press:

"At Tokio the belief prevails that Japan will continue her endeavor to increase her political influence in China. The Japanese business men are continually clamoring for a political ascendancy that will not be so abrupt as to endanger peace. What they want is a thorough economic conquest of the neighboring republic."

"The readiness with which the Chinese recently granted American capitalists the concession to build a long railroad and their hesitation in making contracts with the Japanese have awakened the Japanese to the fact that ascendancy in China, to be successful, must be accompanied by some measure of trust and confidence. The Japanese have tricked the Chinese so much that the Chinese have lost all confidence in their neighbors, both politically and commercially."

"The situation as it stands between the United States, China and Japan is in its infancy, but it is growing daily and will have to be taken into consideration soon."

Chinese papers throughout the republic show hostility to any financial arrangement in which Japan has a hand. There is a general disposition to discourage joint action between any group of foreign powers and China, if Japan be included in the group. Chinese newspapers are practically unanimous in their expression of the hope that American bankers will invest large sums in the development of China, without co-operation with foreign powers. The United States is heralded as the one country which has dealt fairly with China and has no desire to acquire Chinese territory and exercise undue political pressure on China through financial channels.

The warrant for the town meeting includes an article to see what the town will do in regard to contracting with the Hampton Water Company for a certain number of hydrants for fire protection. This is a matter that has come before the town each year for several years past. One other question of extreme importance that will come before the meeting is the Hobbs legacy of $20,000. This fund was left by the late John W. F. ## WIRELESS PLANT ESTABLISHED IN MEXICO

Washington Hears Direct Communication Has Been Established Between Berlin and Mexico.

Washington, March 19.—Information has reached the government from a semi-official source that through the perfection of a powerful wireless telegraph plant in Mexico City direct communication between the Mexican capital and Germany has been established.

Officials realize that if confirmed, this news is of great importance, and an investigation has been ordered. Through connection by Mexico City with the land telegraphs leading into the United States, Germany would be able to secure complete exemption from the censorship which now is imposed upon its communications by the American government at the wireless stations at Sayville and Tuckerton and by the British and French governments in their control of the Atlantic cables.

Far-reaching possibilities thus would be opened for the violation of American neutrality or even the menacing of the national safety in the critical situation existing. Sea raiders and submarines must be directed, and full information concerning the departure of ships from American ports furnished. German agents in this country might keep in close touch with Berlin and in case of war even more serious results might follow.

From other semi-official sources, information had reached Washington that secret meetings are being held by Germans in Vera Cruz and Monterey, to determine upon uniform action by Germans in Mexico in the event of an outbreak of war between the United States and Germany.

KITCHENER IS BLAMED FOR DARDENELLES JOB

War Secretary Favored the Project, is Report, and His Final Decision Was Accepted by the English War Council

London, March 8.—The Dardanelles expedition as far as Great Britain was concerned, was undertaken on the initiative of Colonel Winston Spencer Churchill, then first lord of the admiralty, according to a majority report of the commission appointed to inquire into the responsibility for the expedition which was issued today. The report summarizes the conclusions reached as follows:

"The question of attacking the Dardanelles was on the initiative of Mr. Churchill, brought under the consideration of the war council on November 25, 1914, as the ideal method of defeating Egypt. It may reasonably be assumed that inasmuch as all the authorities concerned were prima facie in favor of a joint military rather than a purely naval attack such attack, if undertaken at all, would have been of the former rather than of the latter character had not other circumstances led to a modification of the program. A communication from the Russian government on January 2 introduced a fresh element into the case. The British government considered that something must be done in response to it, and in this connection the question of attacking the Dardanelles was again raised.

"The secretary of state for war declared that there were no troops immediately available for operations in the east, and his statement was accepted by the war council, who took no steps to satisfy themselves by reports of estimates as to what troops were then available then or soon. Had this been done the commissioners think it would have been ascertained that sufficient troops would be available for a joint military and naval operation at an earlier date than supposed, but this matter was not adequately investigated by the war council. Thus the question before the war council on January 13 was whether or not action of any kind should for the time being be undertaken or whether action should be taken by the fleet alone, the navy being held to be the only force available.

"Political arguments, which were adduced to the war council in favor of a prompt and effective action if such were practicable, were valid and of the highest importance, but the practicability of whatever action was proposed was of equal importance. Mr. Churchill alone appears to have advocated an attack by ships before the war council on a certain amount of half hearted and hesitating expert opinion which favored a tentative or progressive scheme, beginning with an attack upon the outer forts. This attack, if successful, was to be followed by further operations against the main defenses of the narrows. There does not appear to have been direct support or direct opposition from the responsible naval and military advisers, Lord Fisher and Sir James Wolfe Murray, as to the practicability of carrying on the operations as approved by the war council, viz: To bombard and take the Gallipoli Peninsula with Constantinople as the objective.

"The first sea lord and Sir Arthur Wilson, who was the only naval adviser present at the war council, expressed no dissent. Lord Kitchener, after the bombardment of March 18 was inevitable. There was no meeting of the war council between March 19 and May 14. Meanwhile important land operations were undertaken. We think that before such operations were commenced the war council should have carefully reconsidered the whole position. In our opinion the prime minister ought to have summoned a meeting of the war council for that purpose, and, if not summoned, other members of the war council should have pressed for such a meeting. We think this was a serious omission. We consider that the responsibility of those members of the cabinet who did not attend the meetings of the war council was limited to the fact that they delegated their authority to their colleagues who attended those meetings.

"We are of the opinion that Lord Kitchener did not sufficiently avail himself of the services of his general staff, with the result that more work was undertaken by him than it was possible for one man to do, and confusion and want of efficiency resulted. "We are unable to concur in the view set forth by Lord Fisher, that it was his duty, if he differed from the chief of his department, to maintain silence at the council or to resign. We think the adoption of any such principle generally would impair the efficiency of public service.

"We think that although the main object was not attained, certain important political advantages, upon the nature of which we have already dwelt were secured by the Dardanelles expedition. Whether these advantages were worth the loss of life and treasure involved is and must always remain a matter of opinion."

"The report of the commission says that Lord Kitchener's premature death and the death of his secretary, Major Fitzgerald, renders it impossible to state with the same confidence as in the case of the living the opinions and aims of Lord Kitchener at different periods of his proceedings. The commission does not believe, however, that even deference to the memory of the illustrious dead would justify it in abstaining from complete revelations of his court. The report adds:

"It is necessary to do justice to the living as well as the dead."

Colonel Churchill testified that Lord Kitchener's personal qualities and position played a very great part in the decision of events, the report says. It continues:

"He was the sole mouthpiece of war officer operation in the war council. If he gave a decision it was invariably accepted as final. He was never overruled by the war council or cabinet in any matter, great or small. Scarcely anyone ever ventured to argue with him in the council."

Major-General Charles E. Coldwell, who was director of military operations at the war office at the time of the Dardanelles expedition, testified that the general staff virtually ceased to exist because it was not consulted. The principle of centralization, the report says, was pushed to the extreme point by Lord Kitchener. It proved successful in the minor operations in the suggestion, but in larger operations it threw on one man more work than any individual could cope with.

Everyone Should Drink Hot Water in the Morning

Wash away all the stomach, liver, and bowel poisons before breakfast.

To feel your best day in and day out, to feel clean inside; no sour bile to coat your tongue and sicken your breath or dull your head; no constipation, bilious attacks, sick headache, colds, rheumatism or gassy, acid stomach, you must bathe on the inside like you bathe outside. This is vastly more important, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do, says a well-known physician.

To keep these poisons and toxins well flushed from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, drink before breakfast each day, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of Limestone phosphate in it. This will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Get a quarter pound of Limestone phosphate from your pharmacist. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except a slight twinge which is not unpleasant. Drink Limestone phosphate every morning to rid your system of these vile poisons and toxins also to prevent their formation.

To feel like young folks feel; like you feel before your blood, nerves and muscles became saturated with an accumulation of body poisons, begin this treatment and above all, keep it up! As soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and purifying, so Limestone phosphate and hot water before breakfast, act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

GERARD DUE SUNDAY
Washington, March 8.—The state department said today Ambassador Gerard and party are due at Havana between Saturday and Monday.

As a real sign of spring, although the snow on the ground would make it seem far distant, the news from the baseball training camps is a sure promise that it is on the way.

BEST FOR LIVER, BOWELS, STOMACH HEADACHE, COLDS

They live the liver and bowels and straighten you right up.

Don't be bilious, constipated, sick, with breath bad and stomach sour.

Tonight sure! Take Cathartics and enjoy the nicest, gentlest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced. Wake up with your head clear, stomach sweet, breath right and feeling fine. Get rid of sick headache, biliousness, constipation, furred tongue, sour stomach, bad colds. Clear your skin, brighten your eyes, quicken your step and feel like doing a full day's work. Cathartics are better than salts, pills or enemas because they don't shock the liver or gripe the bowels or cause inconvenience all the next day.

Mothers should give cross, sick, bilious, feverish children a whole Cathartic anytime as they can not injure the thirty feet of tender bowels.

WITH THE SPORTS

New York, March 8.—The managerial pathway ahead of Jimmy Callahan of the Pirates this year is not strewn with rose petals, for Callahan has the uncertain task of building up a winner over the foundation of last year's sixth placers before him.

The figure dope on the 1916 Pirates shows that they are not first division contenders in any branch of the game for besides finishing sixth in the pennant race, they finished sixth in both batting and fielding.

Apparently, then Callahan's task calls for both bolstering in both the hitting and fielding ends of the game, and the hurling corps of the Pirates needs some attention too. Al Mamans, Bob Harmon and Cooper practically form the backbone of the Pirates staff. Miller, Jacobs and Evans of last year's staff together with recruits picked up by Pittsburgh during the fall and the winter will be depended upon to furnish the bolstering that is necessary.

Callahan is after a first baseman who can deliver the goods day in and day out at the initial corner. He has had the idea of putting Hans Wagner on first sack and keeping him there and Wagner it is known, would like to have the job. But the veteran Honus, is still too valuable as a second sack or shortstop to change to first base if some other player who can hold down the job can be found.

Rumors of trades that will put the Pirates on a firm basis for the coming pennant race have been flying fast for the past few weeks and Callahan may not be able to announce a definite lineup until nearly time for the opening of the season, providing he is successful in closing a number of deals he has in view.

President Barney Dreyfuss made it evident that a slinkup in Pirate ranks might be made at any time when he refused to show concern over the action of many of his players in holding out, and it was hinted around Pittsburgh that even Max Carey, might be included in a deal if he continued to refuse to sign.

The Pirates won their last National League pennant in 1903, and Dreyfuss is yearning to see his club in the van once again for a winner in Pittsburgh is a handsome box office attraction and the fans there are howling for a club that can compare with the Pirates of a few years ago—the Pirates who were always in the fight for the pennant whenever they got their share of the breaks.

Prospects ahead of the Pirates however, will not be so cloudy as their last season's showing might indicate if Callahan can uncover some reliable players from among his recruits. He has a fairly well balanced outfield but could use one more man of the calibre of Carey and Eichelbaum, and with a first baseman another seasoned catcher and two more pitchers who can take their share of the work along with the trio already named, the Pirates should give a good account of themselves.

Hughes, Ladd, Smith, Smith and Johnson with the veteran Honus Wagner will probably make up the field from which the regular inner circle of defense will be selected, unless a deal is made which will bring a first sack to the club.

The Pirates will try out the virtues of Georgia's climate for spring training this year, having selected Columbus, Georgia, as the garden spot for their spring operations. The Brooklyn Dodgers will go to Hot Springs, Ark. this year on the old stamping grounds of the Pirates.

New York, March 8.—New faces will be prominent in the lineup of the Capital City team this year.

Clark Griffith has apparently decided that he can't annex a pennant with the club he has been using for several years past so he has started building a new machine replacing most of the old cogs with new ones. The upbuilding of the Washington aggregation can scarcely be accomplished in one season, and because of this, Washington will not open the campaign in April rated as a serious contender for the pennant.

According to information out of the Capital, Griffith will give his club a thorough shaking up. None of the old regulars will appear this season playing their regular positions in the infield, and only one veteran outfielder will remain in his niche in the lineup.

Advance dope indicates that Griffith intends playing Howard Shanks at first base. Shanks has played the outfield and has also done chores at third and short, taking a turn now and then at the initial sack.

Griff, it is said, has decided that Mr. Shanks will show to the best advantage if placed on first base and played there steadily.

Another move will be the shifting of Eddie Foster from third to second base and Joe Leonard will be stationed at the hot corner. Leonard looked good in the games he played with Washington last year, and Griffith believes he is ready to hold down the job as a regular. The shortstop will be decorated by Crane, a youngster secured from Baltimore, and George McBride is to be kept on the bench for emergency purposes.

Clyde Milne, one of the good old regulars will hold down an outfield job as usual, and with him in the outer gardens will be Elmer Smith and Sam Rice. Smith did good work for Griffith last year and Rice is rated as the head of a lifetime by foxy Griffith.

Griff has enough reserve talent to change his lineup completely if he sees fit to do it. In Acosta and Meneses he can replace two outfielders and Judge, and Morgan with McBride, would alter the complexion of the infield considerably if Griffith saw the need of a switch.

In catching talent the senators are well fortified. In Henry, Almsmith and Garrity, they have a trio of efficient, backstops. The two veterans are still capable of playing a bangup game and Garrity is a sturdy Knight of the pad and mitt who can hit the ball on the nose in addition to holding up the fingers and pegging well to the bases.

With Walter Johnson as the king pin, Griffith has a clever staff of pitchers, who if they show their 1916 form during the present season, will be numbered among the stronger stuffs of the league. Gaffin, Harper, Shaw, Ayers, Demott and Thomas comprise the seasoned staff and Griffith will try out a number of youngsters who look promising.

In looking over the Washington club there is strength in all departments, but the fact that Griffith has decided to experiment with a new lineup is responsible for his club being counted out of the running as a real pennant contender. The class of four other pennant critics taking Griffith's boys seriously and Yankees—is too well thought of to clubs—the White Sox, Red Sox, Tigers, and Cubs.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BLADDER BOTHERS YOU

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Mark Twain, after his first visit to the Hawaiian Islands, said, in an interview: "The music of the Hawaiians, the most fascinating in the world, is still in my ears and haunts me sleeping and waking. I can still hear the pulsing of the surf at Waikiki, see the plummy palms drooping by the shore, the garlanded crabs, and the leaping cascades, and this music fills me with the spirit of its woodland solitudes." Just as this music fascinated the beloved American writer, so has it captivated thousands of people from both hemispheres who annually stop at the Islands. ## SECRET SERVICE MEANS HEROISM UNREQUITTED

New York, March 8.—Coinciding with the discovery of the Zimmerman note, which disclosed the far-reaching plans of Germany to foment trouble in every part of the globe, and the subsequent refusal of Secretary of State Lansing to disclose how the note was obtained because it would "endanger lives", comes a brief press dispatch from Juarez, Mexico, announcing the "defeat of 'important agents' from the German consulate there."

To the average reader the Juarez dispatch may seem unimportant, yet in all probability it is another link, forged in the great chain of unknown achievements of our valiant little band of patriots who throughout the world are always on the alert in the interest of our country, yet who in time of danger cannot call on us for aid.

This little band of men who are known only to the state department, and whose names appear in the secret archives of the United States as "A-41" or "C-2175" live lives that for adventure and heroism make the average "best seller" hero look like a tarnished imitation.

So little is known by the general public of the secret agents of our country that to the average person it seems probable no such body of men exists. As a matter of fact its vast majority of the citizens of the country seem to think the secret service, which in reality is attached to the treasury department, is entrusted with diplomatic work of the "underground" order. This, however, is not the case. Although it is the duty of the secret service and department of justice operatives to run down plots of different kinds that are brewing almost continually within the confines of our own borders, they seldom are sent out of the country.

In far off Russia, in China, Japan, Germany, France, England, South America, and in fact, every inhabited part of the globe, there flits the diplomatic phantom, the "secret agent."

How many times he has intercepted just such documents as the Zimmerman note will probably never be known outside of diplomatic circles, but this particular feat is a good example of the work done by these "watchdogs of the mist." Using fictitious names and numbers I will outline their work.

When the war broke out in Europe, broke with all the suddenness of a furious thunder storm it was no surprise to those engaged in the great game of "dangling death" in Berlin, a dapper youth of decided Teutonic appearance listed under our own banner as "B-45" was fully alive to what was doing.

On the Russian border Ivan Muscovitz, whose reports were signed with another number and letter, straightway informed Washington of

COURT REGRETS IT CAN'T JAIL FLAG OFFENDER

The Russian preparations, while in France and England Andre Le Rose and Cyril Frothingham, respectively, reported the doings of these two great nations.

The youth of Teutonic appearance is killed by a taxicab. Plainly an accident, you would say if you had witnessed the incident, yet the taxicab had followed the Teutonic youth many blocks and was in all probability driven by a decrepit old chauffeur, who is known to Wilhelmstrasse as X-997,681, and who had received notification of the Teutonic youth's activity in the vicinity of some district of military importance.

So died the Teutonic youth. On the register at Washington "B-45" is crossed off as dead and "B X" rushes from Dresden to take his place. The Teutonic youth is an American, born and raised, fighting to protect his country, but, even knowing that his life is in continual danger, he can make no appeal for aid. He has done his duty; he is dead.

In Mexico City recently a well-known and devoted servant of the United States, well known because of his undying love for his country and his splendid nerve, was killed in a street fight. Killed because he was about to uncover things which were better kept under cover, in the opinion of the Mexican Government.

His friends knew why he was killed. They knew he had been in the shadow of death many times, but only his intimates knew why he persisted in taunting the grim reaper to come get him.

A "secret agent" is a secret agent in all that the word implies. He may do braver deeds than those accomplished by the soldier or sailor in battle, but the world cannot know of them. No decoration graces his breast, no honors are thrust upon him by an admiring public, yet he continues on his perilous way doing his duty, a man without a country, who is invaluable to the nation, but yet one whom the nation cannot recognize.

If he is killed, his death is often avenged by one of his fellow agents, for many friendships are formed not alone between men of his own national corps, but with those of other nations with whom he must necessarily work.

Often French, American and British secret agents work hand in hand. The Frenchman may discover while doing some work for his own Government that there is a plot being hatched for a German invasion of the United States through Mexico. He passes the information along to the British and American agents.

Suddenly a fleet of British and American warships get sailing orders. They depart, "destination unknown." There is no invasion.

The American may uncover a message of vast importance to France. His friend, Paul Ledoque, has worked often with him. Paul shall know.

And so it goes on, the never ceasing state of activity throughout the world; men come and go, come full of the enthusiastic desire to do for the best interests of the nation, and go by the more violent, yet expected, route of "sudden death."

Unknown, unhonored and unwarded, they play with death as you play with your own particular amusement, accomplish their ends by any means in their power, yet guarding the nation from more dangers than you ever dreamed could exist.

Not a particularly clean game, for it involves theft, assault and battery and often deliberate murder, but necessary to the preservation of law and order throughout the world and just as honorably enacted as the killing of men in battle.

They are the "watchdogs of the mist" and they flit in and out of this world of strife like so many fireflies. A flicker here, a flicker there, then the light goes out forever. Heroes unrewarded.

The United States Senate, by passing the modified cloture resolution, has removed the filibuster boogymen from that body. It is too bad that some more of the filibuster Senators aren't so easy to remove.

IF MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT DARKENS SO NATURALLY NOBODY CAN TELL

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of dandruff.

Washington, March 8.—The navy department today received bids from six companies for 14-inch high explosive projectiles, the amount of the contract not being made public. The Crucible Steel Company was low bidder, both in price and time, offering to begin delivery in 90 days at $235 per shell.

Other bidders were the Alameda Steel Company, $225 per shell, 455 days; Washington Steel and Ordnance Company, $226, 65 days; E. W. Bliss Company, $275, eight months; American Clay Machinery Company, Bucyrus Co., $294.85, eight months; Bethlehem Steel Company, $290, 14 months.

The same type of projectile formerly was known as common shell in the navy, differing from armor piercing shells, which cost about twice as much.

The navy ordnance bureau discovered a process some time ago by which the common shell could be converted at a small expense and with no mechanical difficulties into high explosive projectiles for use against land fortifications and scout cruisers, destroyers or other light craft.

LOYAL LEGION BANQUET "DRY" AT PORTLAND

FIRST TIME IN FIFTY YEARS THAT NO LIQUOR WAS SERVED AT ANNUAL DINNER.

Portland, Me., March 8.—A beerless banquet, the first since the organization came into being more than 50 years ago, featured the regular meeting of the Loyal Legion, commandery of Maine, at the Portsmouth Hotel last evening. Water, coffee and ginger ale were offered in liberal quantities, but were received without enthusiasm. Dr. Seth C. Gordon, treasurer, rapped for order after the dinner to introduce the speaker of the evening, Maj. Francis A. Pope, U. S. A., and used a ginger ale bottle for a gavel.

It was in 1865 that this organization was instituted and periodically the members of the commandery of Maine have gathered for the semi-annual dinner and never before has the dinner been without beer. Once such a situation threatened when it was found that the beer had been left out of doors and had frozen. It was thawed out and consumed before the meeting adjourned.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

IF MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT DARKENS SO NATURALLY NOBODY CAN TELL

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of dandruff.

Washington, March 8.—The navy department today received bids from six companies for 14-inch high explosive projectiles, the amount of the contract not being made public. The Crucible Steel Company was low bidder, both in price and time, offering to begin delivery in 90 days at $235 per shell.

Other bidders were the Alameda Steel Company, $225 per shell, 455 days; Washington Steel and Ordnance Company, $226, 65 days; E. W. Bliss Company, $275, eight months; American Clay Machinery Company, Bucyrus Co., $294.85, eight months; Bethlehem Steel Company, $290, 14 months.

The same type of projectile formerly was known as common shell in the navy, differing from armor piercing shells, which cost about twice as much.

The navy ordnance bureau discovered a process some time ago by which the common shell could be converted at a small expense and with no mechanical difficulties into high explosive projectiles for use against land fortifications and scout cruisers, destroyers or other light craft.

SALESWOMAN'S COURTESY REWARDED

Patterson, N. J., March 9.—For an act of courtesy to an elderly woman, Miss Rose Schampander, a department store clerk has been notified that she will receive $35,000 on her 25th birthday, three years hence. Meanwhile, she will be paid interest every year on her birthday. It is stipulated only that she shall not marry until she is 25.

Miss Schampander was at Beverly Beach, near Boston last summer when she saw Mrs. Catherine Ward of Grand Rapids, Mich., fall in the sand. The young woman picked her up and an acquaintance developed. Mrs. Ward died recently and her will contained the bequest to the Patterson girl.

Some gun bowlers are coming to the front in the police department.

ELIOT HEN MAN NOT IN IT FOR GETTING EGGS

Charles L. Small of Elm street, Milledale, a hen fancier, is not going to be outdone by Joseph Davis of Eliot and claims that his flock of pullets White Wyandottes makes all other egg producers look like a lot of pickers. This flock of 20 pullets, all White Wyandottes, since the first of January up to, and including March 5, have produced 18 eggs each day. This makes a total for the 65 days since the record was started of 1,170 eggs, or 57 1-2 dozens.

While this record is remarkable for number of eggs produced, the fact that just 18 eggs daily were gathered up is almost beyond belief, but Mr. Small states he has used care in keeping the tally and that the record is absolutely correct.
